MAHARASHTRA 2026

Figures as of 31 August 2026, when the draft roll was published. The final roll is due on 16 November 2026.

Overview

1. Maharashtra's draft roll of 31 August 2026 left off 2.07 crore names, 21.1 of every 100 electors on the roll before the revision.

2. Thane left off 38.4 of every 100 electors, the most of the 36 districts, and Mumbai City, Mumbai Suburban, Pune and Nagpur come next. Hingoli left off the fewest, 8.8.

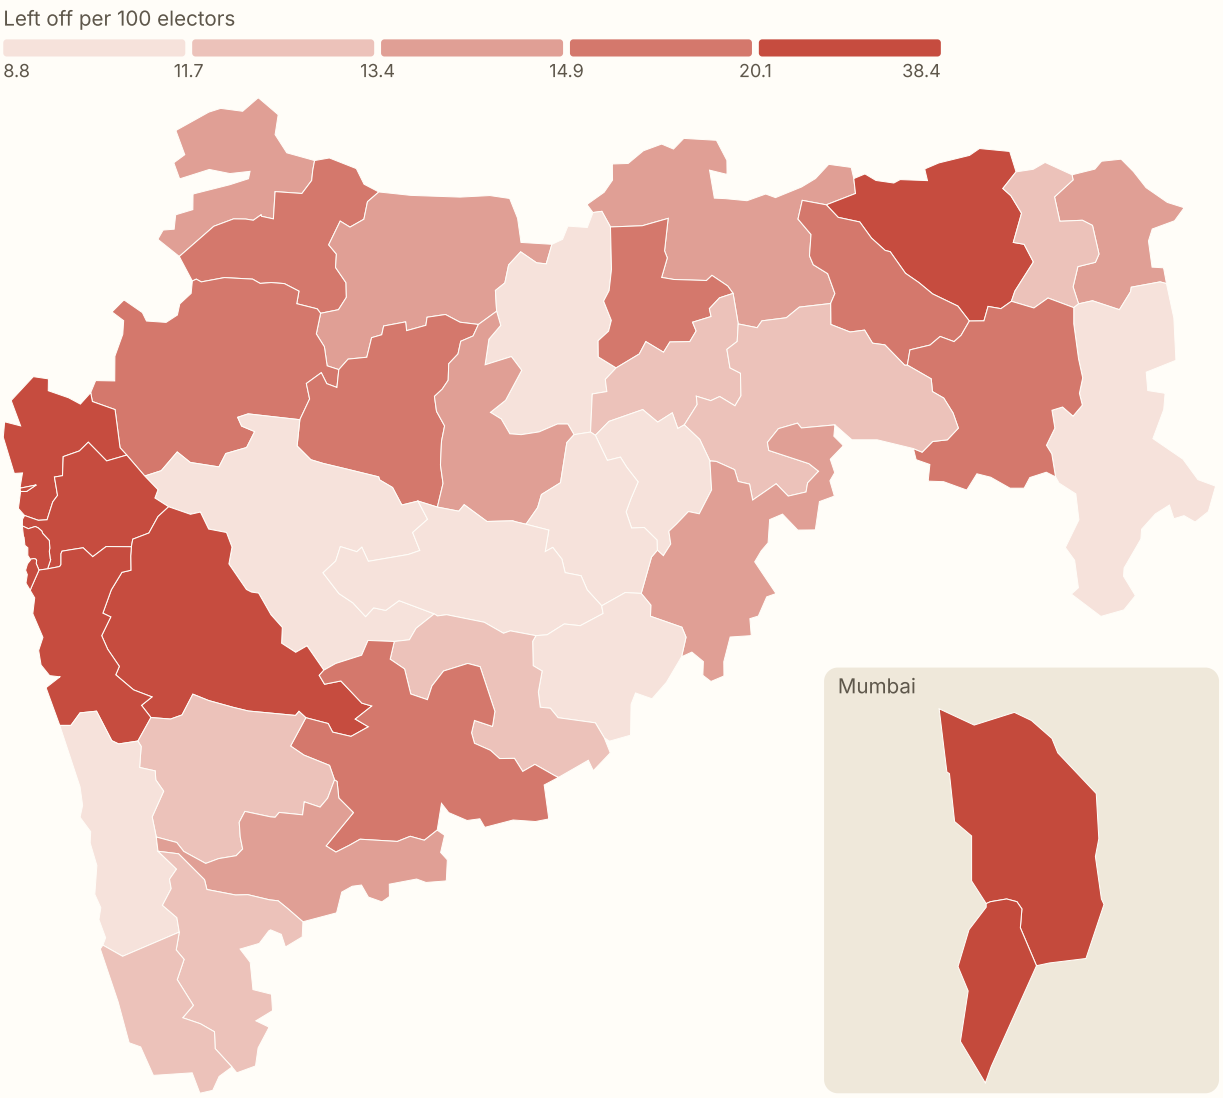

3. The five districts of Mumbai City, Mumbai Suburban, Thane, Palghar and Pune hold 29.9% of the state's roll and 48.4% of the names left off. They lost 34.2 of every 100 electors, against 15.6 in the other 31 districts.

4. Pune lost the most names of any district, 28.7 lakh.

5. Claims and objections run to 26 October 2026, and the final roll is due on 16 November 2026. Until it is out, nobody can say how many of the names left off will be put back.

Find a district

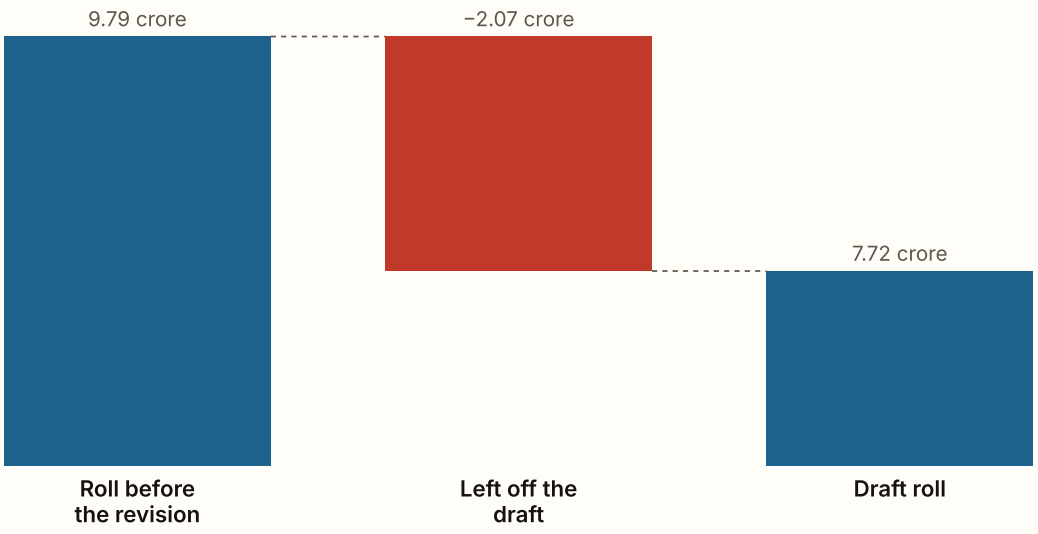

Type a district's name and its figures appear below with a link you can send. The revision's figures were published by district only, so this page has no assembly constituencies to find.

Each district is shaded by the names left off its draft roll for every 100 electors on its roll before the revision. Tap a district for its figures. District boundaries drawn from DataMeet's assembly constituency map (CC BY 2.5 India), simplified, with each constituency placed in its district as the Election Commission lists it.

The roll, step by step

Before the draft, every elector on the roll was given an enumeration form, a short form to fill in and hand back to the official for the polling station. The draft roll is the list published once the forms were collected, and a name whose form did not come back was left off it. Maharashtra's draft came out on 31 August 2026. Electors can now ask to be added or object to names on it, and only after that comes the final roll. The bars start above zero so that the changes can be seen.

> The draft roll left off 2.07 crore names, 21.1 of every 100 electors. The roll before the revision held 9.79 crore names and the draft holds 7.72 crore. One crore is ten million.

Maharashtra's dates, as they were set and as they were moved, are drawn beside every other state's on How the revision was run.

Per 100 electors, by district

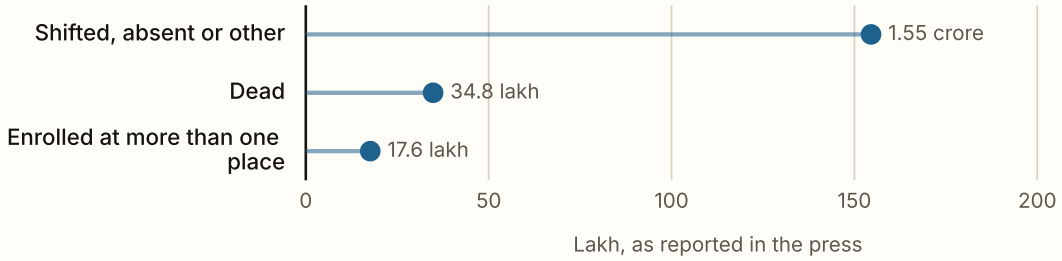

The names left off each district's draft roll, for every 100 electors on its roll before the revision. Counting per 100 electors puts large and small districts on one scale, so a rate of 20 means one elector in five was left off. The figures are from the Chief Electoral Officer (CEO), who keeps the state's rolls for the Election Commission. Mumbai City, Mumbai Suburban, Thane, Palghar and Pune are in red, and the upright line marks the rate for the state as a whole.

Thane left off 38.4 of every 100 electors, the highest rate of any district, 28.6 lakh names in all. Mumbai City, Mumbai Suburban, Pune and Nagpur come next. Outside the five city districts the highest is Nagpur, at 31.1. 7 of the 36 districts left off more than the state's 21.1, and 22 left off fewer than 15. Hingoli left off the fewest, 8.8.

The reasons

The CEO's press note lists five reasons a form was not collected. The elector was absent or could not be found, had shifted, had died, was enrolled at another place, or the form was not collected for some other reason, including a refusal to fill it in. The note gives no count for any of them, for the state or for a district. The counts below were reported in the press, rounded to the nearest thousand, and are given in lakh (one lakh is 100,000). A reason is what the officer wrote down, and nobody checked it.

According to the press, 74.7% of the names left off were entered as shifted, absent or other, 16.8% as dead and 8.5% as enrolled at more than one place. The three press figures add up to 2,06,99,000, which is 10,513 more than the CEO's total, because each was rounded. They are for the state as a whole, and no count by reason has been published for any district. The Indian Express carried them.

Mumbai and Pune

Mumbai City, Mumbai Suburban, Thane, Palghar and Pune are the five districts that hold the cities of Mumbai and Pune and the towns that have grown round them. Here they are set against the other 31 districts.

29.9%

of the state's roll before the revision

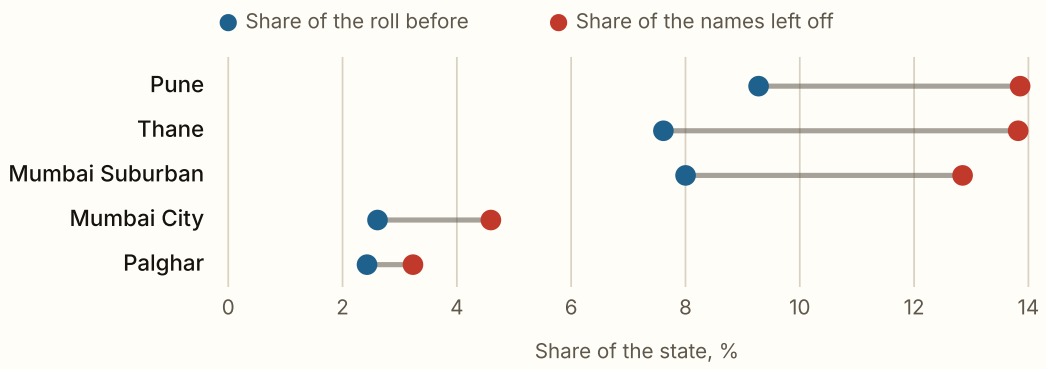

48.4%

of the names left off

34.2

left off per 100 electors, against 15.6 in the other 31 districts

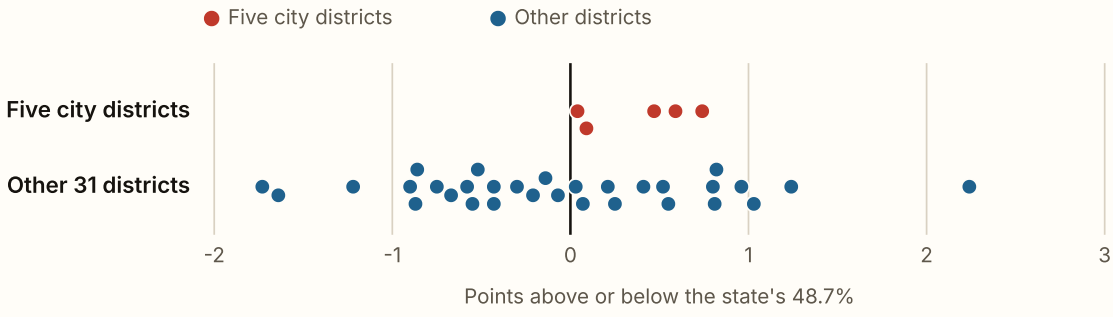

Each of the five districts' share of the state's roll before the revision, and its share of the names left off. Where the second dot sits to the right of the first, the district lost more than its share.

The five districts hold 29.9% of Maharashtra's roll and 48.4% of the names left off, 1.00 crore names in all. They lost 34.2 of every 100 electors, against 15.6 in the other 31 districts. Each of the five lost a larger share of the names than its share of the roll. Pune and Thane together account for 27.7% of every name left off in the state.

Women

The CEO published the draft roll by sex and nothing else by sex. The roll before the revision and the names left off are given as totals only, so the names left off cannot be counted by sex. What can be shown is women's share of each district's draft roll. Each dot is one district, placed by how far its share sits above or below the state's. Hover or tap a dot for its name.

Women are 48.7% of Maharashtra's draft roll, 3,75,72,570 women against 3,95,89,905 men and 3,087 third-gender electors. Their share runs from 47.0% in Beed to 50.9% in Ratnagiri. In the five city districts it is 49.0% and in the rest 48.6%. Without the roll before the revision by sex, these shares cannot show whether women were left off more often than men.

Notices

An elector who stays on the draft roll can still be sent a notice to prove the entry, with documents, at a hearing. The CEO's press note says notices go to electors who could not be linked to the rolls of the last intensive revision, in 2002 to 2004, and to entries whose details do not agree, and gives no number for either.

1.22 crore electors still on the draft roll were sent a notice, 15.8 of every 100, according to the press. 59.8 lakh of them were on the no-mapping list, of electors who could not be linked to the rolls of the last intensive revision, and 62.5 lakh were on the logical discrepancy list, of entries whose details were flagged as not agreeing. The figures are from The Times of India of 17 September 2026, which quoted the CEO. How many names have been struck off after a hearing has not been published.

After the draft

The final roll is due on 16 November 2026 and is not out yet. After the draft, an elector asks to be added with Form 6, and an objection to a name already on the roll is made with Form 7. The press note set 30 September 2026 as the last day for claims and objections and 4 November 2026 for the final roll. The Commission moved them, in its letter of 26 September 2026, to 26 October 2026 and 16 November 2026, with notices heard until 10 November 2026. Until the final roll is out, nobody can say how many of the names left off will be put back.

The 38 constituencies the CEO listed

The Chief Electoral Officer has published one table by constituency, and it covers 38 seats. Its title reads, in full, "Top 38 ACs with High Percentage of Uncollectable EF Electors (excluding Muslim-heavy ACs as claimed by Indian Express report)". The CEO chose the seats, in answer to a newspaper's report, so the table is 38 of the state's 288 constituencies and says nothing about the other 250. It is shown as the CEO printed it, and this page neither maps it nor sets it against any other seat. The CEO's table is a file dated 30 September 2026.

> Colaba in Mumbai City is first on the CEO's list, with the forms of 46.9 in every 100 electors not collected. All 38 are in 8 districts, Pune 9, Thane 9, Nagpur 5, Mumbai Suburban 5, Mumbai City 4, Nashik 3, Palghar 2 and Raigad 1.

▶ THE 38 CONSTITUENCIES, AS PRINTED

Every district

Tap or click a column name to sort by it. On a phone each row is a card.

DISTRICT	ROLL BEFORE	DRAFT ROLL	LEFT OFF	PER 100 ▾	WOMEN % OF DRAFT
Thane	74,50,515	45,91,138	28,59,377	38.4	48.8
Mumbai City	25,55,499	16,04,779	9,50,720	37.2	49.2
Mumbai Suburban	78,30,011	51,71,809	26,58,202	33.9	48.7
Pune	90,80,173	62,13,692	28,66,481	31.6	49.3
Nagpur	46,38,589	31,95,322	14,43,267	31.1	49.9
Palghar	23,76,053	17,07,344	6,68,709	28.1	49.4
Raigad	25,33,739	19,49,621	5,84,118	23.1	49.5
Nashik	51,04,458	40,76,666	10,27,792	20.1	48.3
Aurangabad	32,16,167	26,08,507	6,07,660	18.9	48.1
Akola	15,95,644	13,18,652	2,76,992	17.4	48.2
Dhule	18,35,125	15,40,268	2,94,857	16.1	48.6
Solapur	39,41,095	33,18,424	6,22,671	15.8	48.5

Every figure on this page is computed from the published data when the page loads. Sources and method.

The Chief Electoral Officer published no count by reason or by sex, and constituency figures for only 38 seats it chose, so these pages show where names were left off and cannot show why.

Questions about this page

How many names did the revision leave off in Maharashtra?

Maharashtra's draft roll of 31 August 2026 left off 2.07 crore names, 21.1 of every 100 electors on the roll before the revision. The draft roll is the list published once the enumeration forms were collected. Every elector on the roll was given an enumeration form to fill in and return, and a name whose form did not come back was left off the draft. The roll before the revision held 9.79 crore names and the draft 7.72 crore.

Where were the most names left off?

Thane left off 38.4 of every 100 electors, the most of the 36 districts, and Mumbai City, Mumbai Suburban, Pune and Nagpur come next. Hingoli left off the fewest, 8.8. Pune lost the most names of any district, 28.7 lakh. 5 districts left off 30 or more of every 100 electors, and 22 left off fewer than 15.

How do Mumbai and Pune compare with the rest of the state?

The five districts of Mumbai City, Mumbai Suburban, Thane, Palghar and Pune hold 29.9% of the state's roll and 48.4% of the names left off. They lost 34.2 of every 100 electors, against 15.6 in the other 31 districts.

Why were the names left off?

The Chief Electoral Officer gave no count by reason. According to the press, 74.7% of the names left off were entered as shifted, absent or other, 16.8% as dead and 8.5% as enrolled at more than one place. Those figures are rounded to the nearest thousand and add up to 10,513 more than the total. A reason is what the officer wrote down, and nobody checked it.

Were women left off more than men?

This cannot be counted. The Chief Electoral Officer published the draft roll by sex and nothing else by sex. The roll before the revision and the names left off are given as totals only. Women are 48.7% of the draft roll, from 47.0% in Beed to 50.9% in Ratnagiri.

Have the names been put back?

Claims and objections run to 26 October 2026, and the final roll is due on 16 November 2026. Until it is out, nobody can say how many of the names left off will be put back. Of the electors kept on the draft roll, 1.22 crore were sent a notice to prove their entry, according to the press, 15.8 of every 100.

Why are there so few constituency figures?

The Chief Electoral Officer, who keeps the state's rolls for the Election Commission, published the draft by district, and by assembly constituency, the area that elects one member of the state assembly, only for 38 of the state's 288 seats. It chose those 38 itself, leaving out by the table's own title the seats a newspaper had called Muslim-heavy, so they cannot stand for the state. The only other source below the district is the lists of individual electors, which this site does not open. So the map and the tables stop at the district, and the names left off cannot be set against the winning margins of an election.

Can I look up my own name here?

No. Only counts are published on this site. To check your own entry, use the Election Commission's voter search.

All questions and answers

Privacy · Corrections · info@pinpointventures.in

MAHARASHTRA 2026

Figures as of 31 August 2026, when the draft roll was published. The final roll is due on 16 November 2026.

Method

1 Maharashtra's draft roll of 31 August 2026 left off 2.07 crore names, 21.1 of every 100 electors on the roll before the revision.

2 Every district figure is from the Chief Electoral Officer's press note, and every column adds up to the state figures in it.

3 Nothing has been published by reason or by sex of the names left off, and by assembly constituency only for 38 seats the Chief Electoral Officer chose.

What is counted

The press note

Every district figure on these pages is from one document, the press note on the draft roll of the Chief Electoral Officer (CEO), Maharashtra, dated 31 August 2026. The CEO keeps the state's rolls for the Election Commission. The note's first annexure gives the draft roll of each of the 36 districts by sex. The second gives, for each district, the enumeration forms that were not collected. Every elector on the roll before the revision was given an enumeration form to fill in and return, and an elector whose form was not collected is left off the draft. So the forms not collected are the names left off. Both annexures were read from the note's text and checked against the printed pages row by row.

The roll before the revision

The note gives the roll before the revision for the state only, 9,78,54,049 names. A district's roll before is therefore taken as its draft plus its names left off. Added up over the 36 districts, that comes to the state's figure exactly, so no name is unaccounted for.

How the tables were checked

The site is not built unless every check holds. The two annexures must list the same 36 districts in the same order. In every district, men, women and third-gender electors must add up to the draft. The districts must add up to the note's state figures, which are 7,71,65,562 on the draft, 2,06,88,487 left off and 9,78,54,049 before. The percentages printed in the note must follow from the counts.

The reasons

The note names five reasons a form was not collected, without a count for any of them. The state figures by reason on these pages are from The Indian Express, reported in lakh and rounded, and folded into three groups, the dead, the shifted, absent or other, and those enrolled at more than one place, as the All India pages do for every state. They add up to a little more than the CEO's total, because each was rounded.

Notices and dates

The count of notices is from the press, as the All India table of notices records it. The dates are from the note, and the later ones from the Commission's letter of 26 September 2026, which moved the last day for claims and objections to 26 October 2026 and the final roll to 16 November 2026.

District names

The pages keep the note's spellings. Three districts have since been renamed. Aurangabad is now Chhatrapati Sambhajinagar, Ahmednagar is Ahilyanagar and Osmanabad is Dharashiv, and the finder takes either name.

The map

The map joins the constituency boundaries of DataMeet's assembly constituency map (CC BY 2.5 India) by the district each of the 288 constituencies belongs to in the Election Commission's own list, and draws each district as the union of its constituencies. DataMeet's map is older than Palghar district, so it puts Dahanu, Vikramgad, Palghar, Boisar, Nalasopara and Vasai in Thane. The Commission's list places them in Palghar, and so does the map. It also places Warora in Chandrapur, where its two tehsils are. DataMeet's map also carries 14 small shapes with no constituency number, creeks and islands round Mumbai, Thane and Raigad, and each is given to the district DataMeet names for it.

What these tables cannot show

- How many names were left off in each assembly constituency, the area that elects one member of the state assembly, or how the removals compare with the margins of an election. Nothing was published for every constituency. The one table by constituency covers 38 seats the Chief Electoral Officer chose, leaving out by its own title the seats a newspaper had called Muslim-heavy, so it cannot stand for the state.
- Why the names in any district were left off. No count by reason was published for a district.
- Whether women, the old or the young were left off more often. The names left off are not split by sex or age at any level.
- How many of those left off will be put back. The final roll is not out.
- Whether each removal was right. A reason is what the officer wrote down, and nobody checked it.

Downloads

The district table behind every chart is on the Downloads page, which the Downloads button at the top of the page opens.

Analysis of the named lists

This site publishes counts only, never a name. For analysis that looks at named voters, see the Sabar Institute.

The Chief Electoral Officer published no count by reason or by sex, and constituency figures for only 38 seats it chose, so these pages show where names were left off and cannot show why.

Questions about this page

Why were the names left off?

The Chief Electoral Officer gave no count by reason. According to the press, 74.7% of the names left off were entered as shifted, absent or other, 16.8% as dead and 8.5% as enrolled at more than one place. Those figures are rounded to the nearest thousand and add up to 10,513 more than the total. A reason is what the officer wrote down, and nobody checked it.

Were women left off more than men?

This cannot be counted. The Chief Electoral Officer published the draft roll by sex and nothing else by sex. The roll before the revision and the names left off are given as totals only. Women are 48.7% of the draft roll, from 47.0% in Beed to 50.9% in Ratnagiri.

Why are there so few constituency figures?

The Chief Electoral Officer, who keeps the state's rolls for the Election Commission, published the draft by district, and by assembly constituency, the area that elects one member of the state assembly, only for 38 of the state's 288 seats. It chose those 38 itself, leaving out by the table's own title the seats a newspaper had called Muslim-heavy, so they cannot stand for the state. The only other source below the district is the lists of individual electors, which this site does not open. So the map and the tables stop at the district, and the names left off cannot be set against the winning margins of an election.

Where do the figures come from?

The draft roll by district and sex, and the names left off by district, are from the Chief Electoral Officer's press note of 31 August 2026. Every district adds up to the state figures in the note. The reasons are from the press. The method page gives each source.

All questions and answers

Research by ImpactMojo. Only totals are published, never names or EPIC numbers. · About This Site · Removed from the Roll? What to Do · Downloads · Share a List with Us · Support Our Work · Terms and Privacy · Corrections · info@pinpointventures.in