UTTARAKHAND 2026

Figures as of 3 October 2026, when the final roll was published.

Overview

1. Uttarakhand's draft roll left off 8.27 lakh names, 10.4 of every 100 electors on the roll before the revision.

2. Kichha lost 18.2 of every 100 names on its roll before the revision, the most of the 70 constituencies, and Didihat 4.2, the fewest.

3. After the draft, 1.30 lakh names were added and 1.05 lakh deleted, so the final roll of 3 October 2026 holds 25,164 more than the draft. That is 3.0 for every 100 left off.

4. The four plains districts held 60.9% of the roll before the revision, and account for 68.4% of the names left off the draft and 87.2% of the names deleted after it.

5. Women were 47.8% of the draft roll and 53.0% of the names deleted after it, more than their share in 63 of the 70 constituencies.

Where the revision in Uttarakhand stands on 3 November 2026

The final roll was published on 3 October 2026.

An elector who is not on the final roll can still apply on Form 6 at any time under continuous updation.

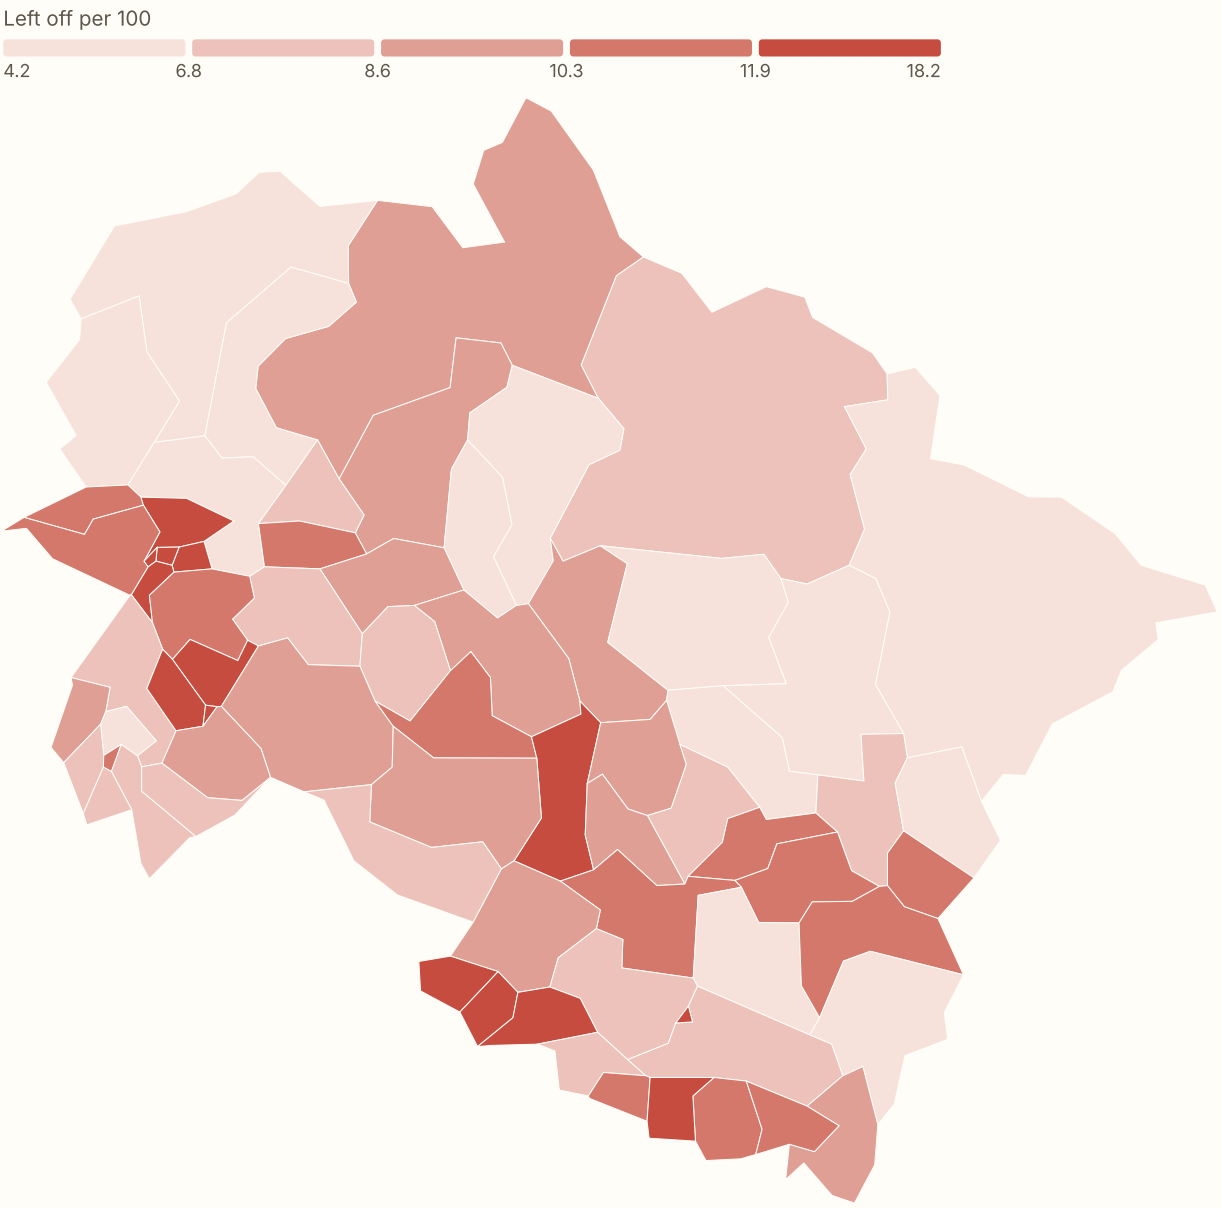

The Commission's letter of 15 October 2026 ordered a special summary revision of the roll in Uttarakhand, with 1 January 2027 as the qualifying date. It set the draft roll for 12 November 2026, claims and objections until 11 December 2026, decisions on them by 28 December 2026, and the final roll for 4 January 2027.

Find a constituency or district

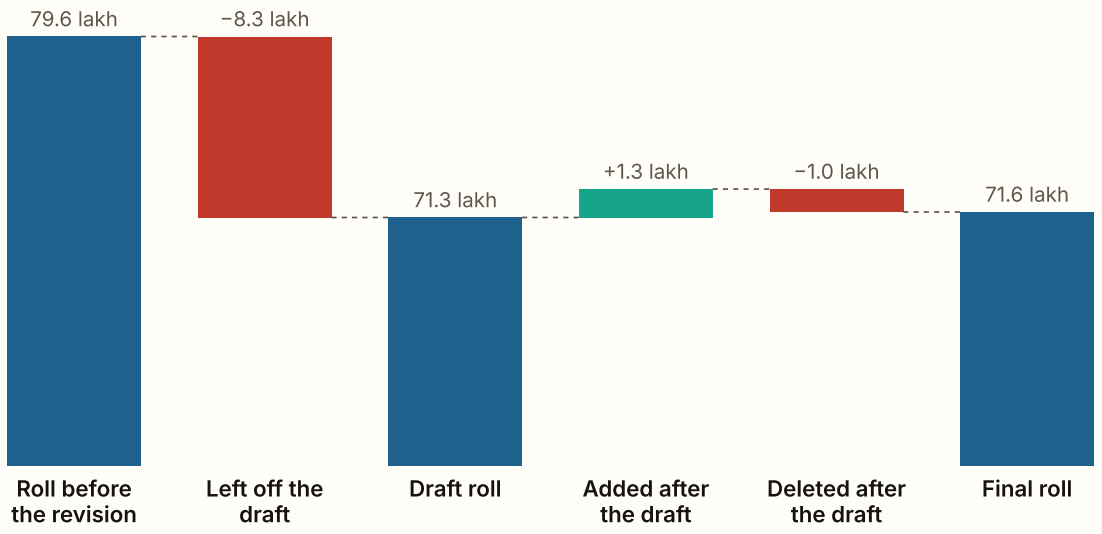

An assembly constituency is the area that elects one member of the state assembly, and Uttarakhand has 70. Type a constituency's name or number, or a district, and its figures appear below with a link you can send.

Each constituency is shaded by the names left off its draft roll, for every 100 electors on its roll before the revision. Tap a constituency for its figures. Boundaries drawn from DataMeet's assembly constituency map (CC BY 2.5 India).

The roll, step by step

The roll before the revision is the list of electors on 8 June 2026, when the revision began. The draft roll of 14 July 2026 is the list published once the enumeration forms were collected, and a name whose form did not come back was left off it. Electors could then ask to be added, or object to names, until 13 August, and the final roll came out on 3 October 2026. The bars start above zero so that the changes can be seen.

> The draft roll left off 8.27 lakh names, 10.4 of every 100 electors, and the final roll is 8.02 lakh smaller than the roll before the revision. After the draft, 1.30 lakh names were added and 1.05 lakh deleted. The net rise of 25,164 is 3.0 for every 100 left off, and it is the names added, people enrolling for the first time among them, less the names deleted.

Uttarakhand's dates, as they were set and as they were moved, are drawn beside every other state's on How the revision was run.

The reasons

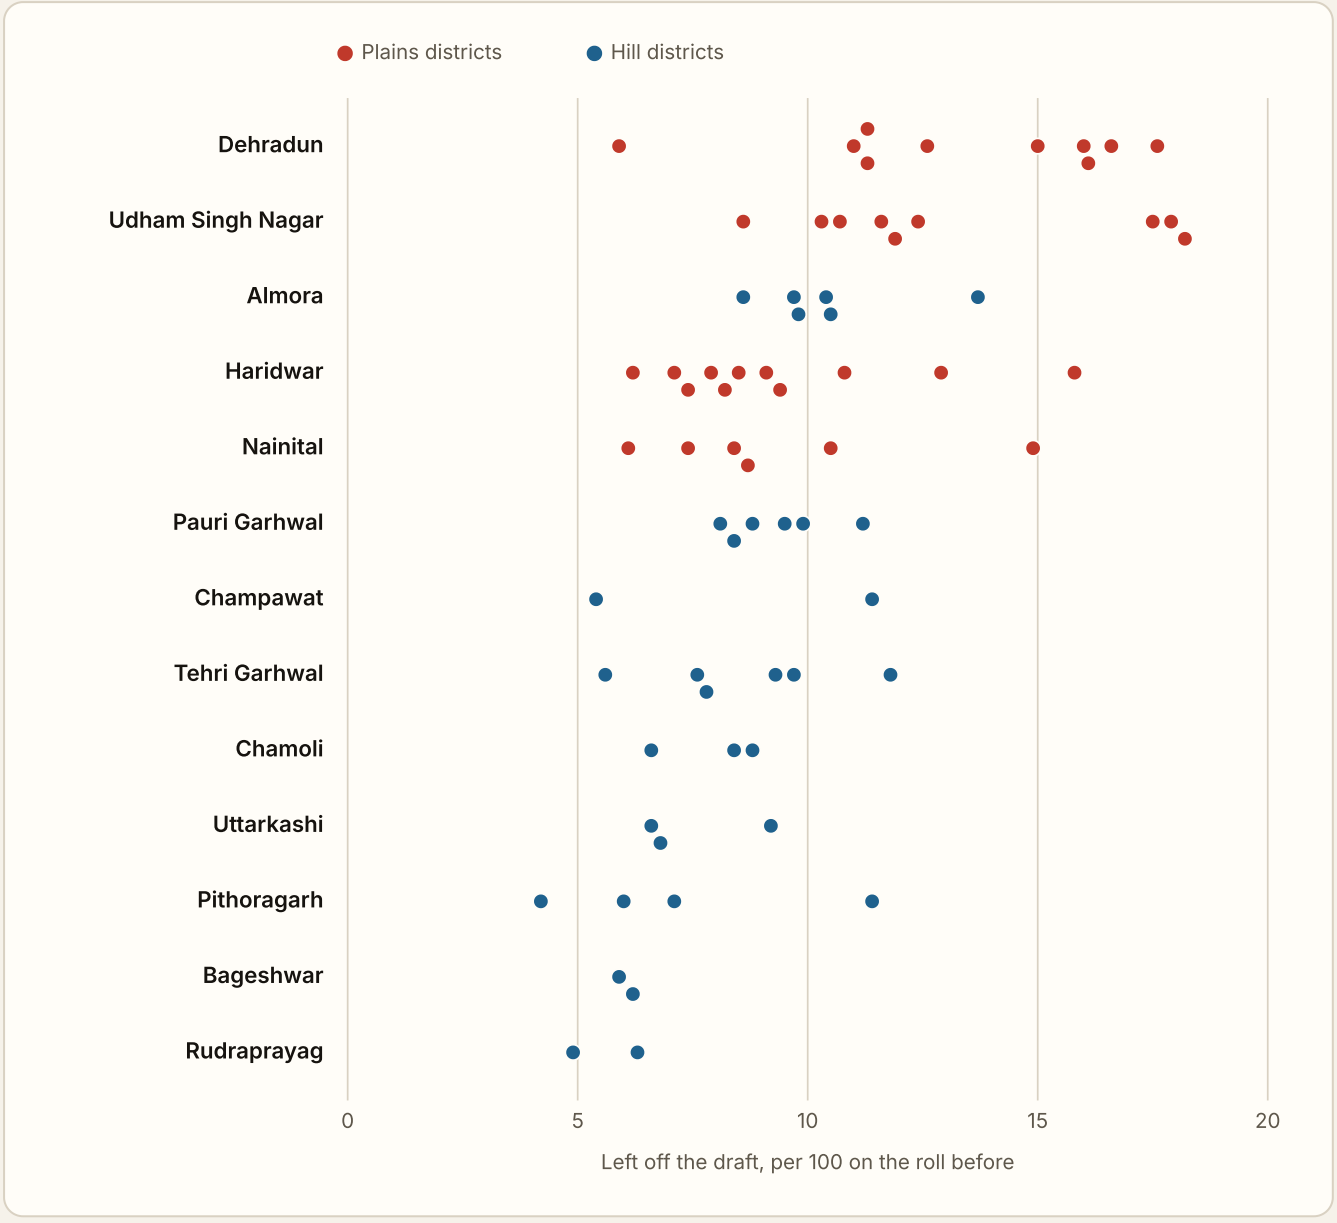

Each name left off the draft carries one of four reasons. The reasons were published for Uttarakhand as a whole, and the chart counts them in lakh (one lakh is 100,000). A reason is what the officer wrote down, and nobody checked it.

76.6% were entered as absent or shifted, 15.0% as dead and 7.4% as enrolled at more than one place. The Chief Electoral Officer did not separate absent from shifted, and published no split of the reasons by district or by sex.

Names left off, constituency by constituency

The Chief Electoral Officer published a table of the draft giving, for every constituency, the electors marked absent, shifted, dead or duplicate and left off. A constituency's roll before the revision is its draft plus those names, and the 70 add up exactly to the state's roll of 8 June. Each dot is one constituency's names left off for every 100 on its roll before, grouped by district. Hover or tap a dot for its name.

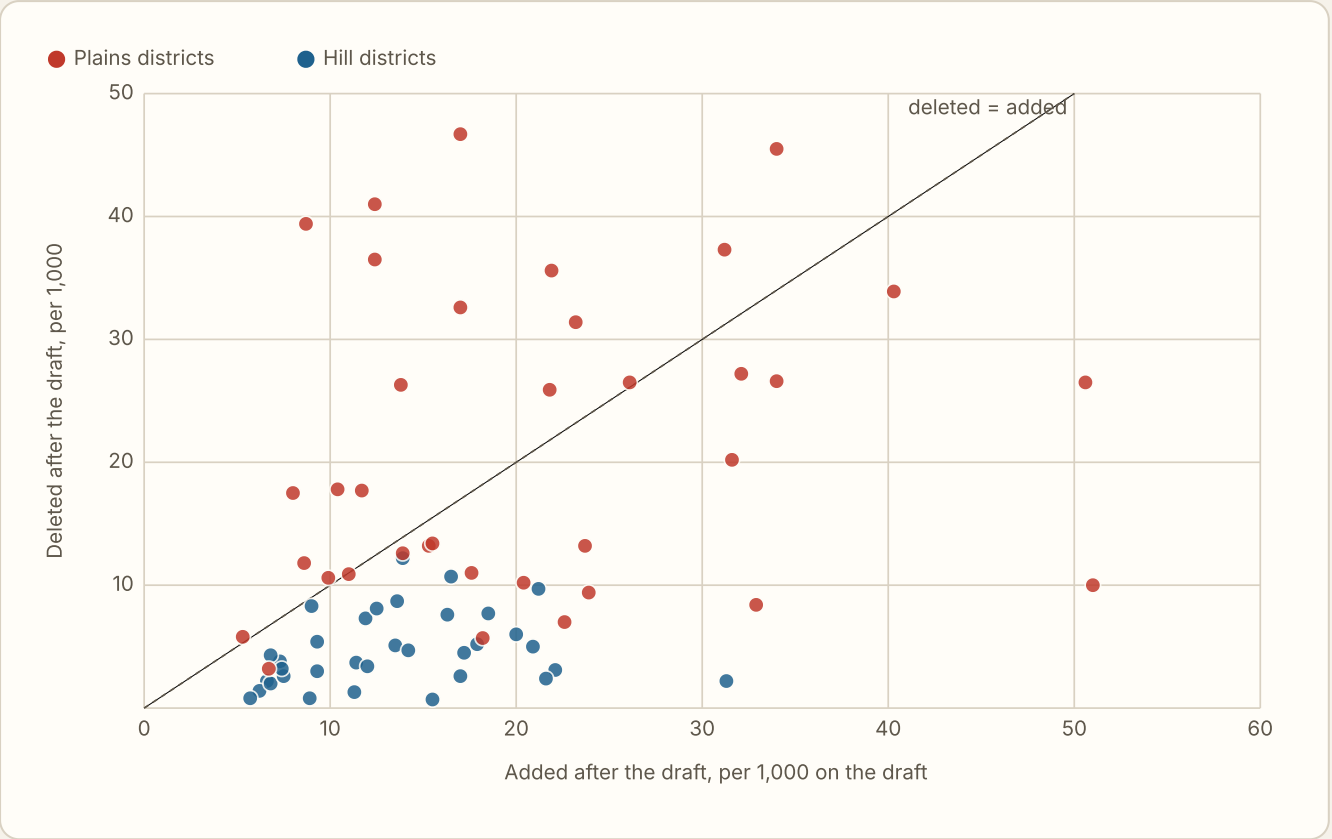

Kichha lost 18.2 of every 100 names on its roll before the revision, and Bajpur (SC) 17.9. Didihat lost 4.2, the fewest. 27 of the 70 constituencies lost more than the state's 10.4. By district, Dehradun lost the most, 13.5 per 100, and Rudraprayag the fewest, 5.6. The plains districts lost 11.7 per 100 and the hill districts 8.4. The table gives no reason or sex below the state.

After the draft, constituency by constituency

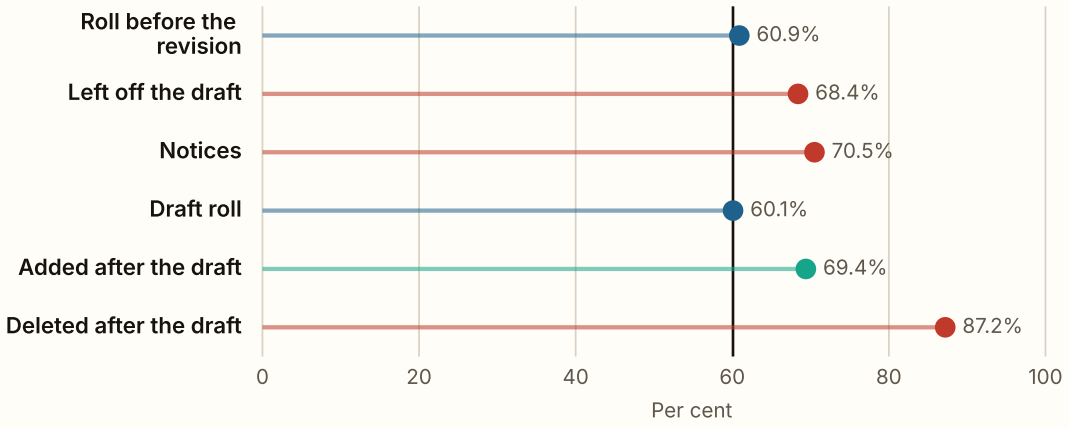

After the draft, a name is added when a claim is admitted (Form 6, or Form 8 for someone moving in) and deleted when an objection is admitted (Form 7, or Form 8 for someone moving out). Each dot is a constituency. Its place across is the names added for every 1,000 on its draft roll, and its height the names deleted. Above the dashed line, more were deleted than added, so the final roll is smaller than the draft.

In 18 of the 70 constituencies more names were deleted after the draft than added, and all of them are in the plains districts. Haridwar Rural deleted the most, 46.7 for every 1,000 on its draft, and Ghansali (SC) the fewest, 0.7. Across the state, 18.2 were added and 14.7 deleted for every 1,000 on the draft.

The plains and the hills

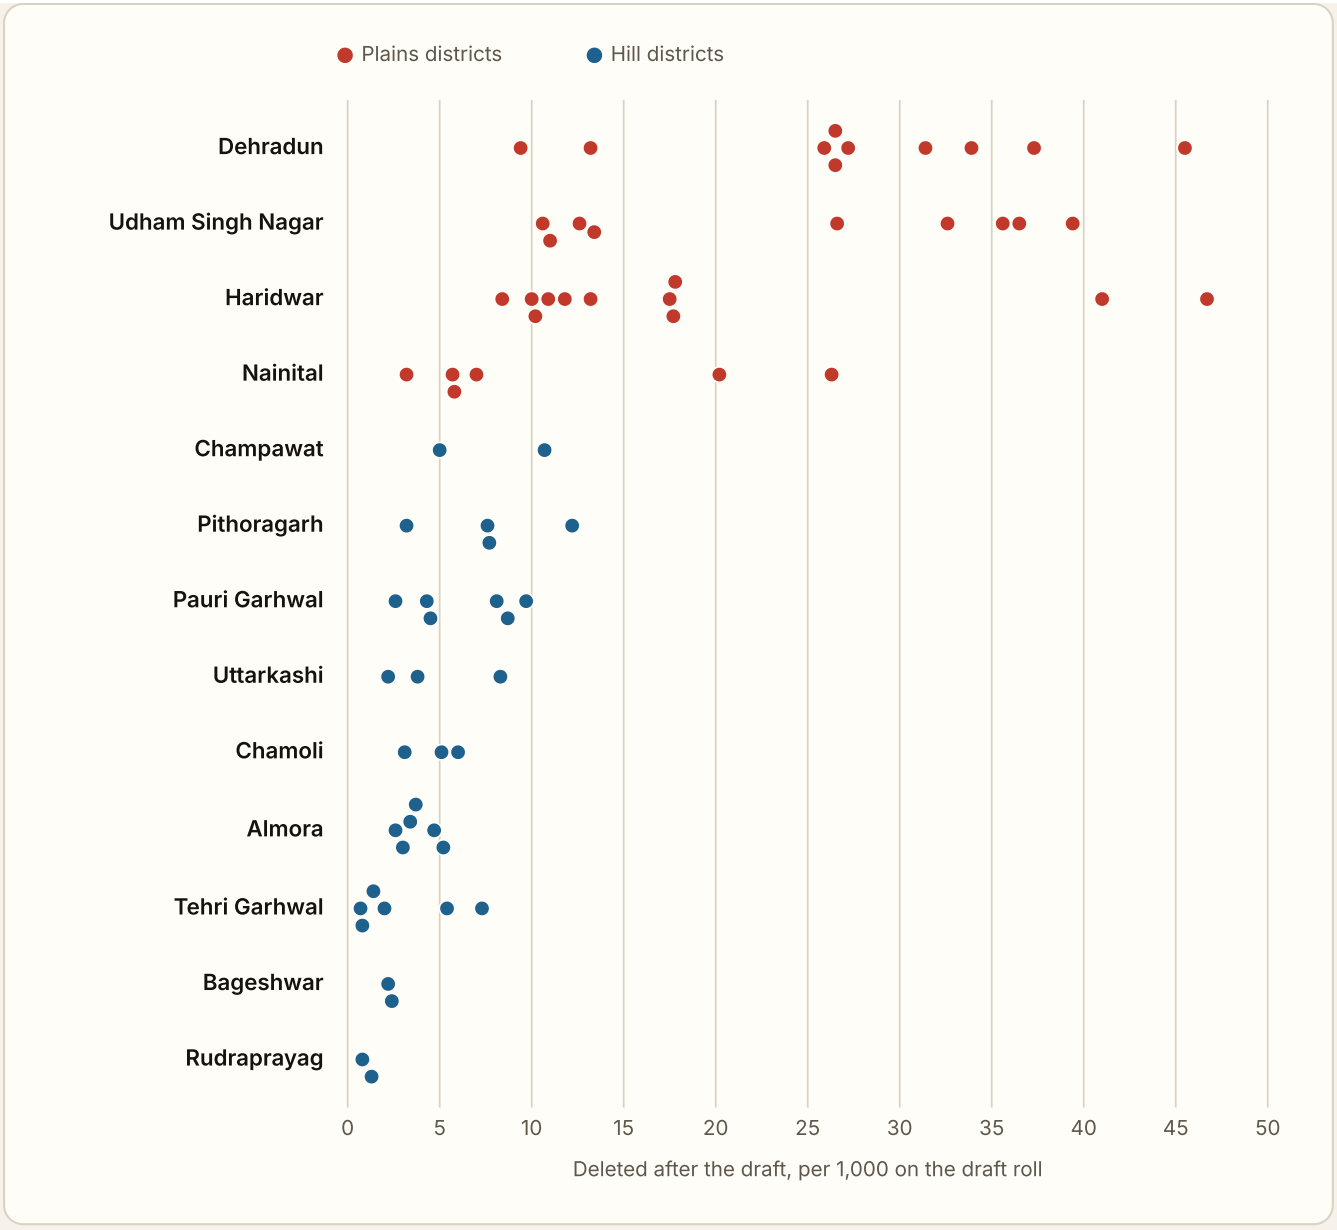

Four districts take in the plains of the state, Dehradun, Haridwar, Nainital and Udham Singh Nagar, and the other nine are in the hills. Dehradun and Nainital also take in hill constituencies, so this is a split by district. The chart shows the plains districts' share of the roll before the revision and of each count that followed.

The plains districts held 60.9% of the roll before the revision, and account for 68.4% of the names left off the draft, 70.5% of the notices and 87.2% of the names deleted after it. Their share grows at every step. They deleted 21.3 for every 1,000 on the draft and added 21.0, so their rolls shrank by 0.3 per 1,000. The hill districts deleted 4.7 and added 13.9, and their rolls grew by 9.3 per 1,000.

Per 1,000 electors, by district

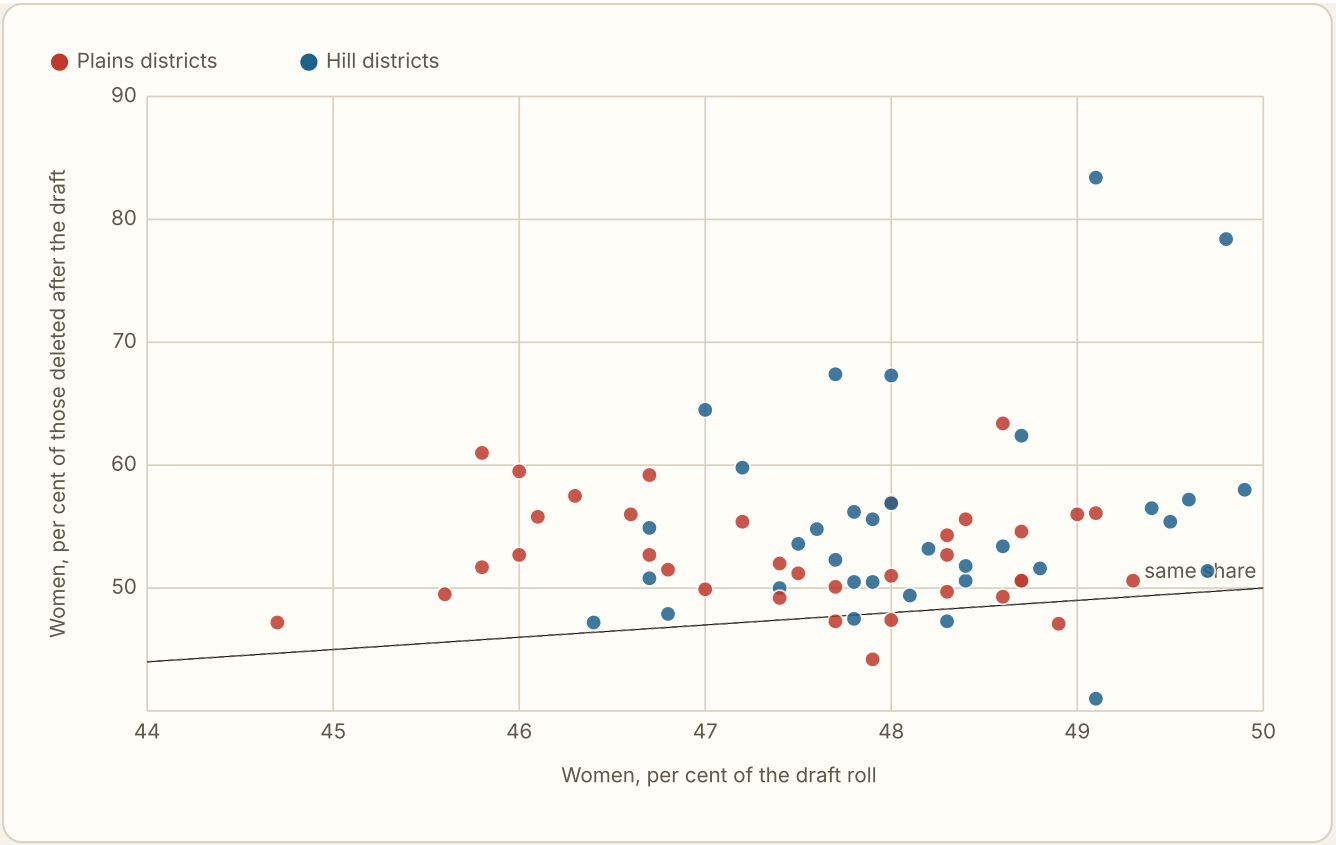

Each dot is one constituency's names deleted after the draft, for every 1,000 electors on its draft roll, grouped by district. Hover or tap a dot for its name.

Dehradun deleted 26.9 for every 1,000 on its draft, the most of the 13 districts. Udham Singh Nagar and Haridwar come next, at 24.4 and 18.6. Rudraprayag deleted the fewest, 1.1.

Women

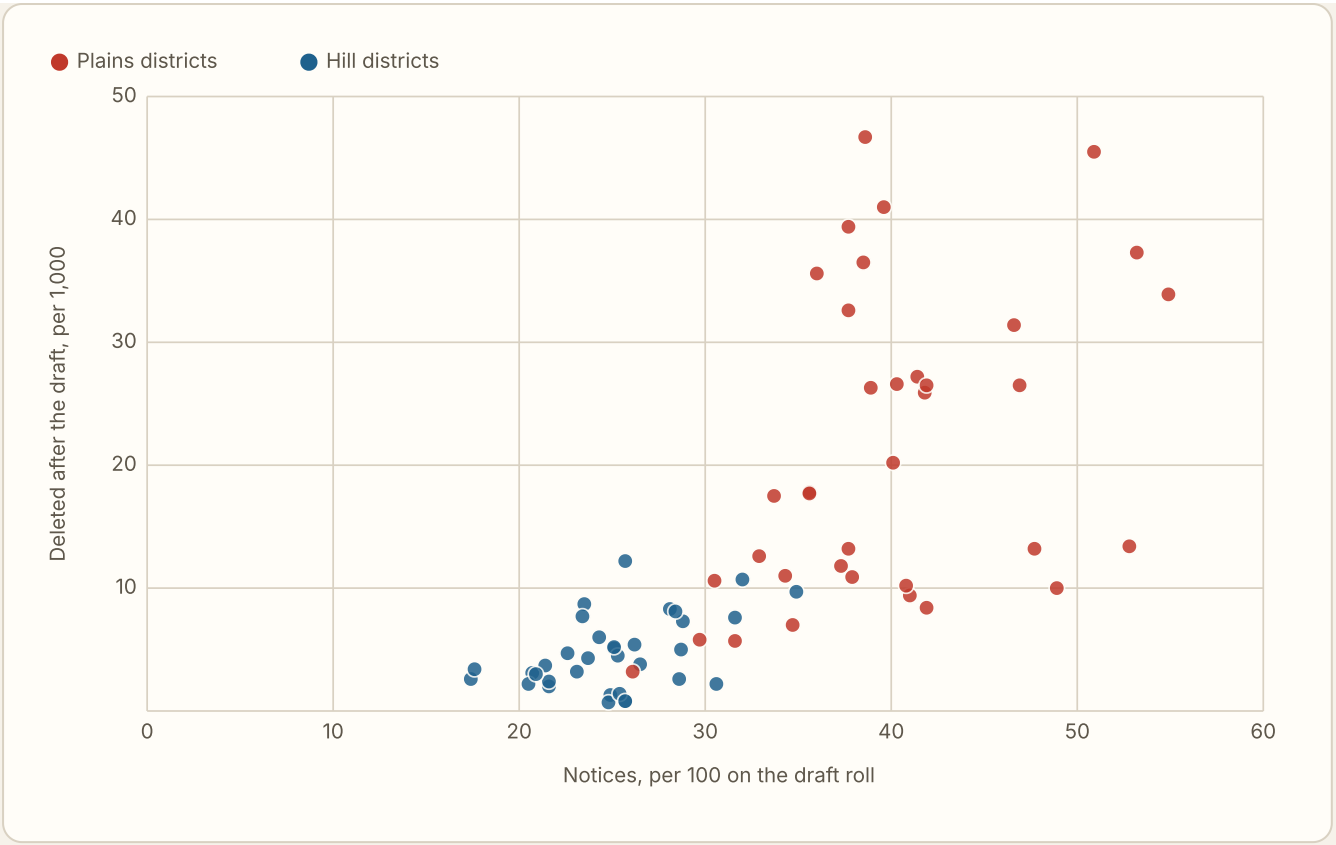

Each dot is a constituency. Its place across is women's share of its draft roll, and its height their share of the names deleted from it after the draft. Above the dashed line, women were a larger share of those deleted than of the roll. The table gives the count by sex and no reason for any deletion.

Women were 47.8% of the draft roll and 53.0% of the names deleted after it, more than their share in 63 of the 70 constituencies. In 12 the gap is 10 points or more, among them Dharchula (83.4% of 993), Didihat (78.4% of 582), Champawat (67.4% of 989) and Deoprayag (67.3% of 104). Women were also 51.3% of the names added, and 47.8% of the final roll.

Notices

An elector kept on the draft could still be sent a notice to prove their entry. The same table of the draft counts, for every constituency, the electors whose entry could not be linked to the 2003 roll (no mapping) and those whose entry had an anomaly, such as an age gap with a parent under 15 years or a name spelt differently from a relative's. The two add up to the 24.30 lakh notices the Chief Electoral Officer gave. Each dot is a constituency. Its place across is notices for every 100 on its draft, and its height the names deleted from it after the draft, per 1,000.

24.31 lakh electors on the draft, 34.1 of every 100, were in line for a notice: 5.26 lakh with no mapping to the 2003 roll and 19.04 lakh with an anomaly. The constituencies with more notices deleted more names after the draft (rank correlation 0.81), and the notices tie the two counts together more closely than the names left off do (0.48). The plains districts had 40.0 notices per 100 on the draft and the hills 25.2. The table does not say how many notices were served or heard in each constituency. The Indian Express reported on 3 October, from the Chief Electoral Officer's presentation, that 97,186 of the 1,04,708 names deleted after the draft were electors found ineligible after a notice, and that would explain the link. The presentation itself has not been found.

What comes next

With the final roll, the Chief Electoral Officer told booth officers to compare it with the roll from before the revision, visit the people missing from it, help those still eligible fill in Form 6, and share the lists with the parties' booth agents. The steps are on How the revision was run.

Questions about this page

How many names were left off the draft in Uttarakhand?

Uttarakhand's draft roll left off 8.27 lakh names, 10.4 of every 100 electors on the roll before the revision. The draft roll is the list published once the enumeration forms were collected, and a name whose form did not come back was left off it. 76.6% of those left off were entered as absent or shifted, 15.0% as dead and 7.4% as enrolled at more than one place. A reason is what the officer wrote down, and nobody checked it. The reasons were published for the state as a whole only, and the count of names left off for every constituency.

What changed between the draft and the final roll?

After the draft, 1.30 lakh names were added and 1.05 lakh deleted, so the final roll of 3 October 2026 holds 25,164 more than the draft. That is 3.0 for every 100 left off. The names added include people enrolling for the first time, so no more than the 1.30 lakh added can have been put back. The final roll is 8.02 lakh smaller than the roll before the revision.

Where were names deleted after the draft?

The four plains districts held 60.9% of the roll before the revision, and account for 68.4% of the names left off the draft and 87.2% of the names deleted after it. Haridwar Rural deleted 46.7 for every 1,000 on its draft, the most of any constituency, and Ghansali (SC) 0.7. In 18 constituencies more names were deleted than added, so the final roll is smaller than the draft.

Were more women than men deleted after the draft?

Women were 47.8% of the draft roll and 53.0% of the names deleted after it, more than their share in 63 of the 70 constituencies. In Dharchula they were 83.4% of the 993 deleted. The table gives the count by sex and no reason, so it cannot say why. Women were also 51.3% of the names added.

Where were the most names left off?

Kichha lost 18.2 of every 100 names on its roll before the revision, the most of the 70 constituencies, and Didihat 4.2, the fewest. By district, Dehradun lost 13.5 per 100 and Rudraprayag 5.6. The counts come from the Chief Electoral Officer's table of the draft, which gives the names left off for every constituency but no reason or sex below the state.

How many electors were sent a notice?

The Chief Electoral Officer's table of the draft counts 24.31 lakh electors on the draft, 34.1 of every 100, in line for a notice to prove their entry: 5.26 lakh who could not be linked to the 2003 roll and 19.04 lakh whose entry had an anomaly. The constituencies with more notices deleted more names after the draft, with a rank correlation of 0.81. The table does not say how many notices were heard or what came of them.

UTTARAKHAND 2026

Figures as of 3 October 2026, when the final roll was published.

Method

1 Uttarakhand's draft roll left off 8.27 lakh names, 10.4 of every 100 electors on the roll before the revision.

2 The names left off in the 70 constituencies add up to the state total, and every constituency adds up, by sex, from the draft to the final roll.

What is counted

The state figures

The Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) keeps Uttarakhand's electoral rolls for the Election Commission. The CEO's press note 36/2026 of 14 July 2026 gives the roll on 8 June 2026, when the revision began (79,60,762), the draft roll (71,33,785) by sex, and a chart of the names left off under four reasons. The press note 63/2026 of 3 October 2026 gives the final roll (71,58,949) by sex, the claims and objections admitted, and the table below.

The constituency table

Pages 3 and 4 of press note 63/2026 are a scanned table of all 70 assembly constituencies, grouped by the 13 districts. For each it gives the draft roll, the claims admitted (Form 6 and 6A, and Form 8 for an elector moving in), the objections admitted (Form 7, and Form 8 for an elector moving out) and the final roll, each for men, women and third gender. Every row adds up. In each constituency, for men, women and third gender separately, the draft plus the claims less the objections must equal the final roll. The claims and objections must add to their printed totals, the constituencies to the printed total of their district, and the districts to the state total and to both press notes. All of them hold. Constituency names are written in the Election Commission's spelling. The table prints constituency 35 as Haridwar, where the Commission's name is Haridwar Rural, and leaves off the SC mark of Bhagwanpur, Gangolihat, Bageshwar and Someshwar.

The table of the draft

On the day of the draft the CEO published a table of the draft by constituency, with no press-note number. For each of the 70 constituencies, grouped by district, it gives the polling stations, the draft roll, the electors marked absent, shifted, dead or duplicate (ASDD) and left off, the service electors, and the electors whose entry raised a question. Those are the electors with no mapping to the 2003 roll and those with one of nine anomalies, such as an age gap with a parent of under 15 years or a name spelt differently from a relative's. The constituencies add to every printed district total, and the districts to the state total, in all 14 columns. The draft equals the draft in the table of the final roll in all 70 constituencies. The names left off add to the 8,26,977 of press note 36, and the draft plus the names left off is the roll of 8 June, 79,60,762, exactly. So a constituency's roll before the revision is its draft plus its names left off.

Notices

The electors with an anomaly (19,04,380) and those with no mapping (5,26,228) add to 24,30,608, the 24.30 lakh notices the CEO gave in the minutes of 5 August 2026. The nine anomaly categories overlap, one elector can carry several, and they are never added together. Notices are counted per 100 on the draft roll.

Per 1,000 on the draft

Names added and deleted after the draft are counted for every 1,000 electors on a constituency's draft roll. They are a few per cent of a roll, and per 1,000 keeps the figures whole enough to read.

The plains and the hills

The plains districts are Dehradun, Haridwar, Nainital and Udham Singh Nagar, and the other nine are the hill districts. Dehradun and Nainital also take in hill constituencies, such as Chakrata, Mussoorie, Bhimtal and Nainital itself, so the split is by district and says so wherever it is used.

Notices in other states

Uttarakhand's notices are shown with every other state's on How the revision was run.

What these tables cannot show

- The names left off by sex or by reason below the state. The table of the draft counts them by constituency with no reason and no sex.
- How many notices were served, heard or upheld in each constituency. The Indian Express reported on 3 October 2026, from the CEO's presentation, that 97,186 of the 1,04,708 names deleted after the draft were electors found ineligible after a notice. The presentation itself has not been found.
- Why a name was deleted after the draft. The table counts objections admitted, with no reason. More women than their share were deleted in most constituencies, and the table cannot say why.
- How many of the names added were people left off the draft and how many were enrolling for the first time. So the names added are the most that could have been put back.
- Whether each exclusion or deletion was right.

Questions about this page

Where do the figures come from?

From three documents of Uttarakhand's Chief Electoral Officer, who keeps the state's rolls for the Election Commission. The press note of 14 July 2026 gives the roll before, the draft and the four reasons. A table published the same day gives, for every constituency, the draft, the names left off and the electors in line for a notice. The press note of 3 October 2026 gives the final roll and a table of every constituency by sex. The method page has the links.
