ASSAM 2026

Figures as of 10 February 2026, when the final roll was published.

Overview

1. Assam had a Special Revision of its roll in 2025-26, ordered by the Election Commission on 17 November 2025, and was left out of the Special Intensive Revision. No existing elector filled an enumeration form or showed a document to stay on the roll.

2. 10.56 lakh names were flagged for deletion with the draft roll of 27 December 2025, as dead, shifted, or entered more than once. The draft still held 2,76,490 more names than the roll of January 2025.

3. Between the draft and the final roll, the roll fell in 94 of the 126 constituencies and rose in 32. Women were 62.9% of the net fall, against 50.1% of the draft.

4. 93,021 D-voters, electors whose citizenship a Foreigners Tribunal has yet to decide, were carried onto the draft unchanged and kept out of the house-to-house check.

5. In November 2019 the six detention centres held 970 people, 324 of them women, and 10 people held in them died in hospital between March 2019 and February 2020.

A different revision

Assam was left out of the Special Intensive Revision. On 17 November 2025 the Election Commission ordered a Special Revision of Assam's roll instead, under section 21 of the Representation of the People Act. The table sets each rule of the Assam order beside the rule the SIR states followed, with the paragraph of the Assam order it comes from.

RULE	ASSAM, SPECIAL REVISION	PARA	SIR STATES
Kind of revision	Special Revision under section 21 RPA 1950.	para 1	Special Intensive Revision.

> In Assam no existing elector filled a form or showed a document to stay on the roll. Booth officers checked a printed list of the electors already on it, and names came off through the ordinary forms, Form 7 for an objection and Form 8 for an elector who has moved. The order makes no link to the 2005 roll or to any earlier one, and says nothing about the NRC.

The roll, step by step

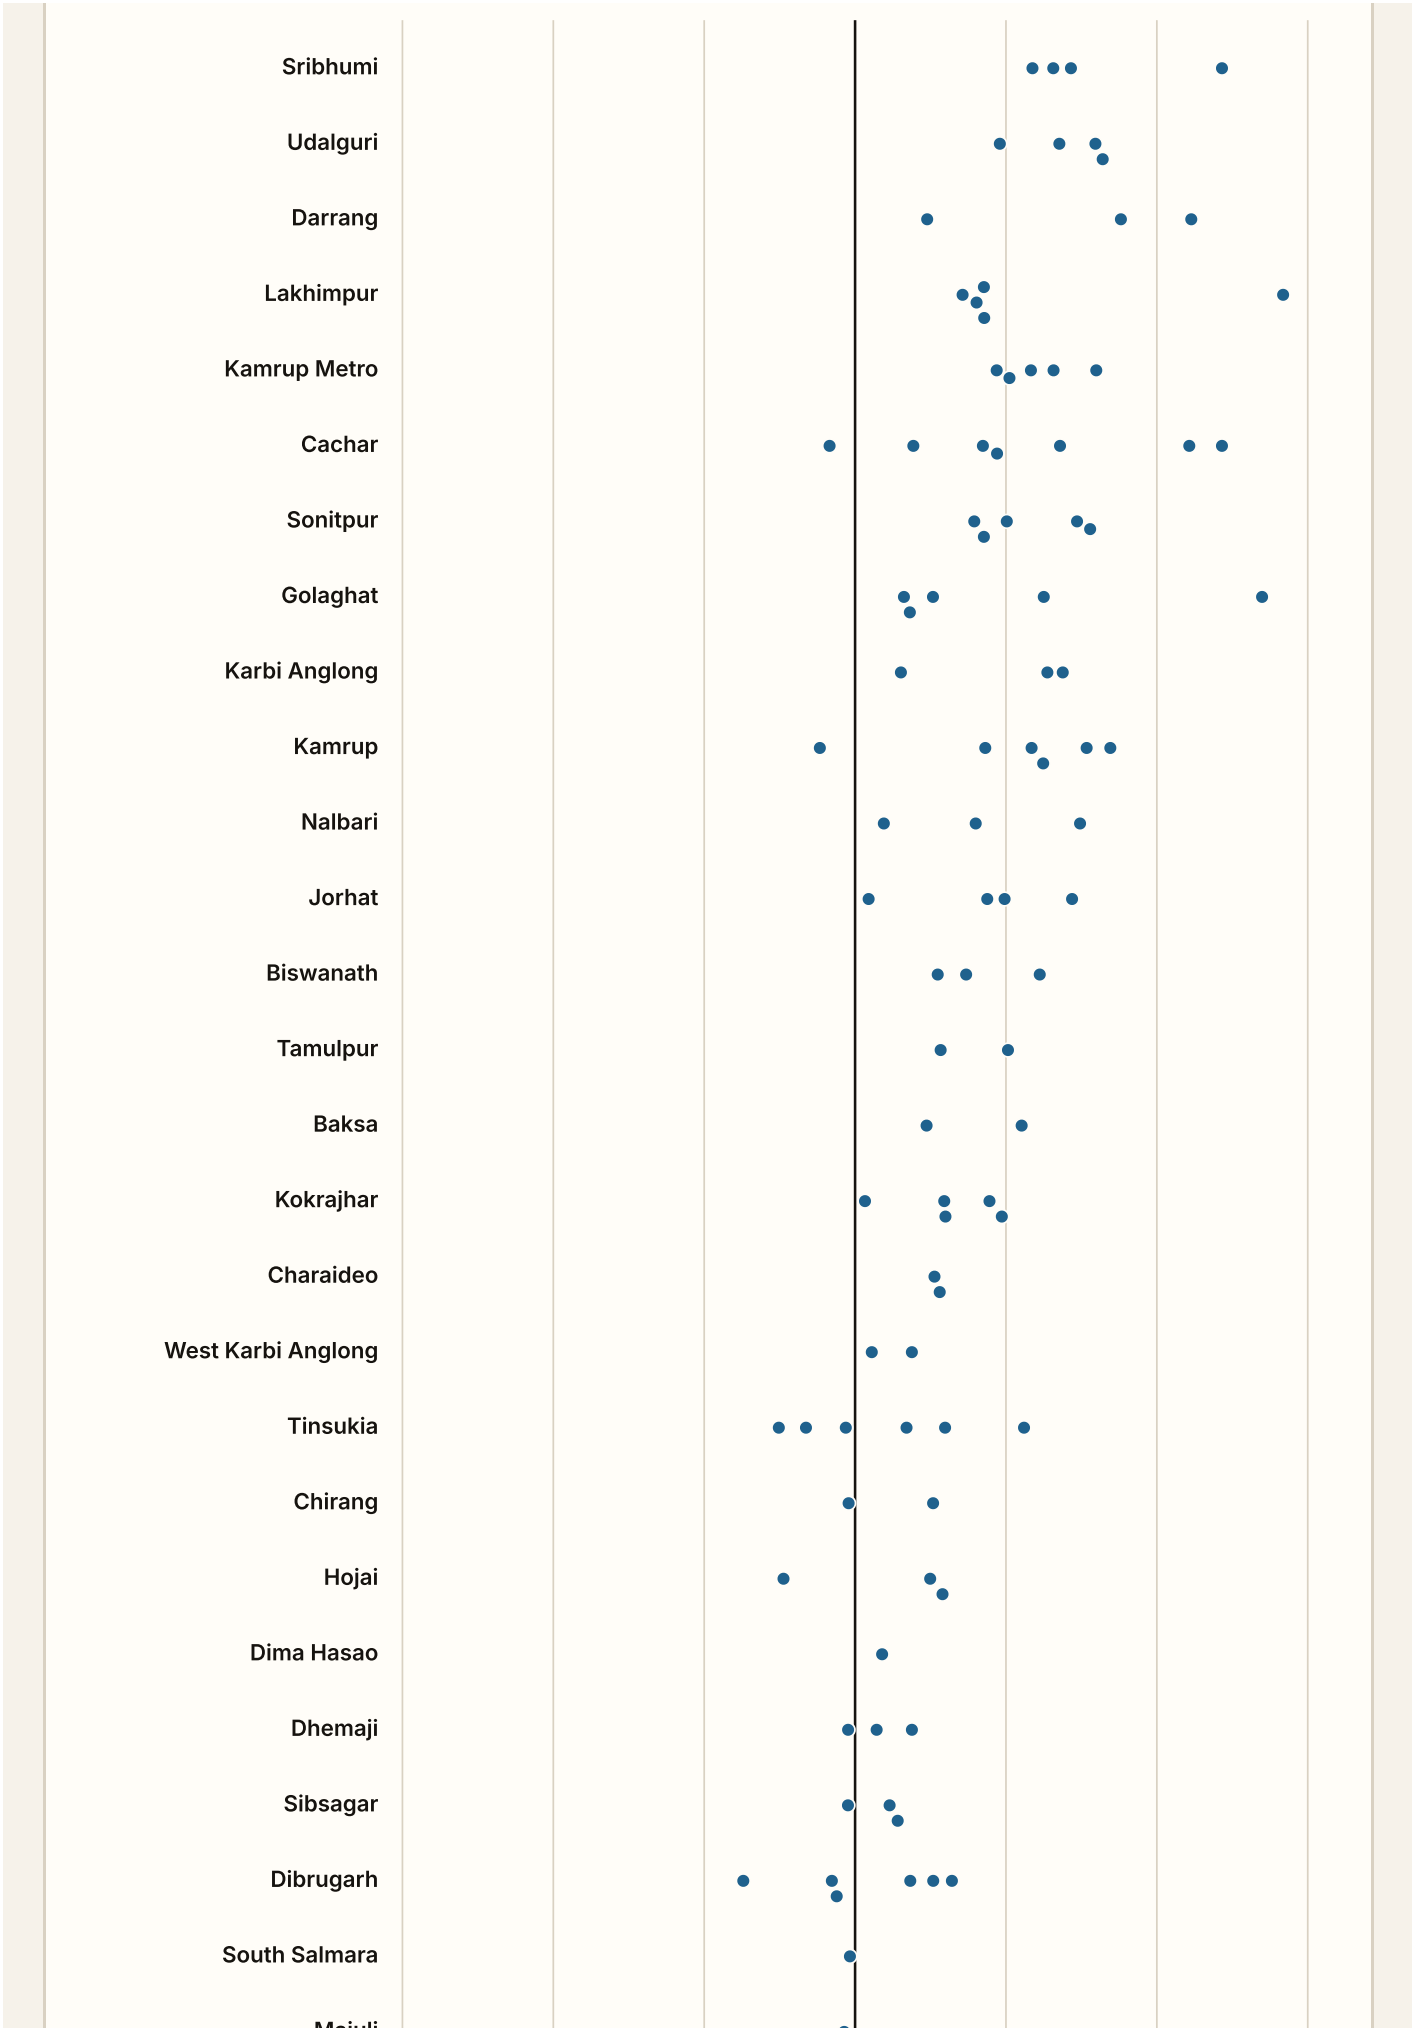

The roll of January 2025 is the last one before the revision. Booth officers then went from house to house between 22 November and 20 December 2025 with a printed list of the electors already on the roll. The draft came out on 27 December, claims and objections ran to 22 January, and the final roll came out on 10 February 2026. The bars start above zero so that the changes can be seen.

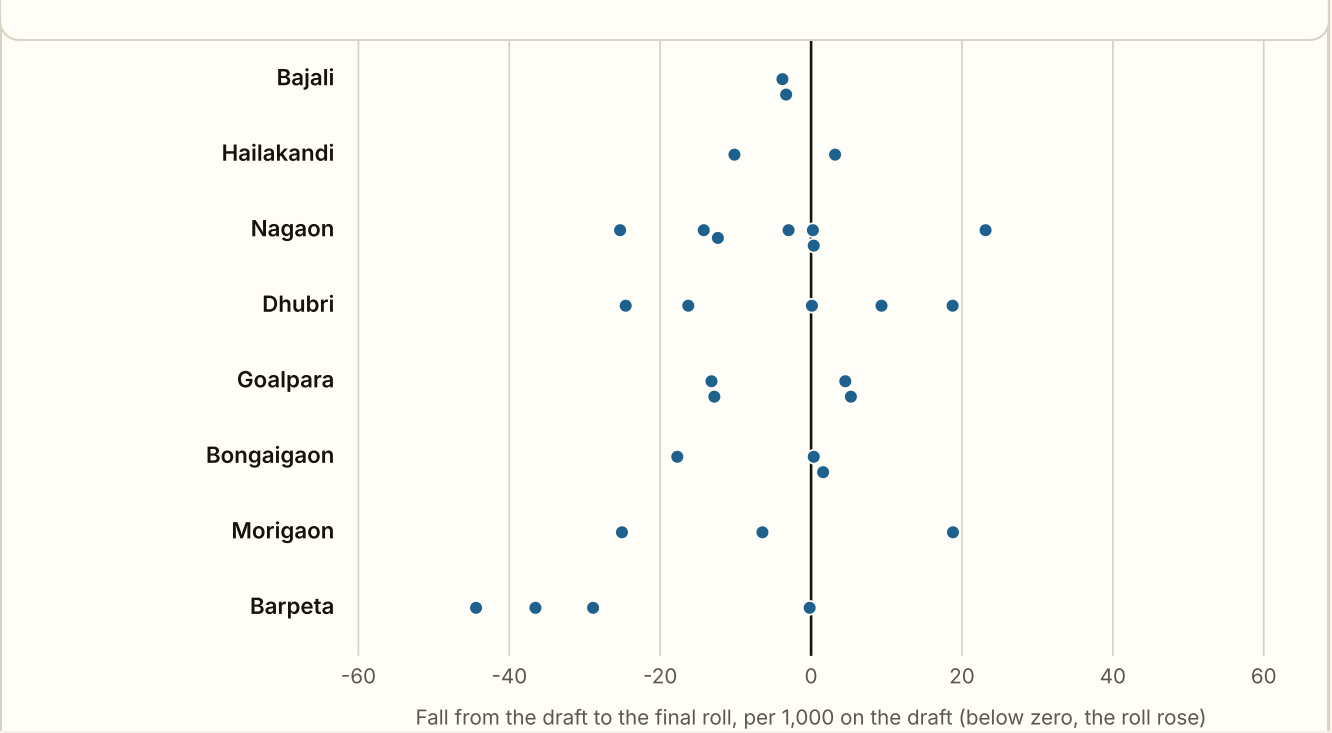

The draft roll held 2,76,490 more names than the roll of January 2025, and the final roll 2,44,636 fewer than the draft. The final roll of 2.50 crore electors is 31,854 larger than the roll of January 2025. Women are 49.99% of it. The January 2025 figure is the Chief Electoral Officer's as reported in the press, and the Commission published no count of the names added and deleted in between, only the totals.

Constituency by constituency

The Chief Electoral Officer published the final roll of 8 February 2024, the draft and the final roll for each of the 126 constituencies, by sex. Each constituency's change from the draft to the final roll is the names added less the names deleted. The tables do not give the two apart, so a constituency whose roll fell may still have added names, and the change says nothing about why.

> Between the draft and the final roll, the roll fell in 94 of Assam's 126 constituencies and rose in 32. It fell most in Lakhimpur (Lakhimpur), by 56.7 for every 1,000 on the draft, and rose most in Chenga (Barpeta), by 44.4. Every constituency's draft held more names than its final roll of February 2024, which is 8,99,664 more across the state.

Women were 62.9% of the net fall from the draft to the final roll, against 50.1% of the draft. Of the 94 constituencies whose roll fell, women's share of the fall was above their share of the draft in 71. The tables give the net change only, so they cannot say whether more women were deleted or fewer were added.

▶ EVERY CONSTITUENCY

Names flagged for deletion

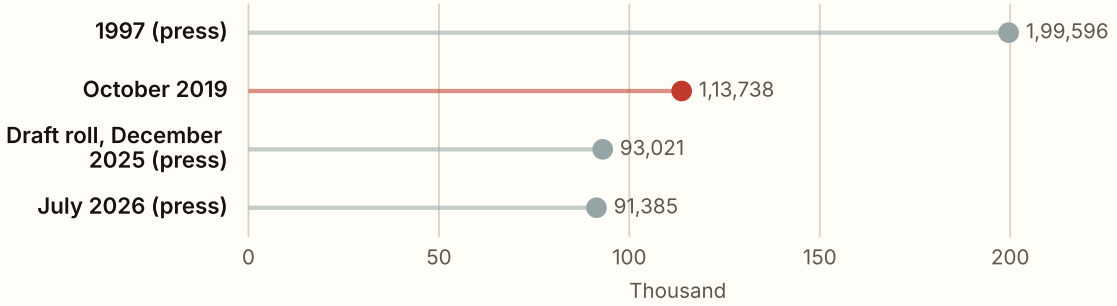

With the draft, the Chief Electoral Officer gave a count of names marked for deletion under three reasons. A reason is what the officer wrote down, and nobody checked it.

The Chief Electoral Officer gave 10,56,291 names under these three reasons, 4.2 for every 100 on the draft. Most reports called them names identified or flagged for deletion. No figure from the Chief Electoral Officer says how many of them were off the published draft, and the draft is larger than the roll of January 2025, so this page calls them flagged. The count reached us through the press, and no split by district, constituency or sex was found.

D-voters

A D-voter, for doubtful voter, is an elector whose citizenship has been questioned and sent to a Foreigners Tribunal to decide. The category exists only in Assam. The order for the revision kept D-voters out of the house-to-house check and carried every one of them onto the draft unchanged, to be changed or deleted only on the order of a tribunal or a court.

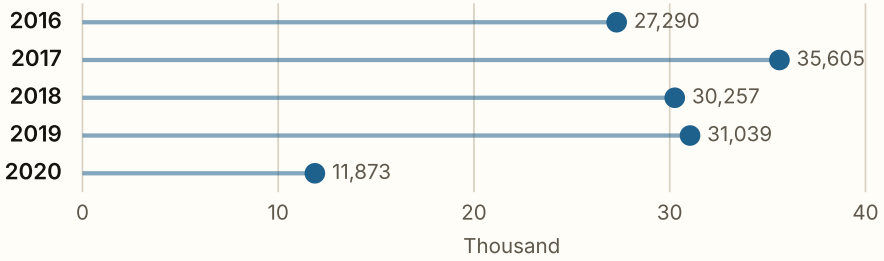

The Ministry of Home Affairs told the Lok Sabha that Assam had 1,13,738 D-voters in October 2019, 70,723 of them women, 62.2%. The other three figures are the Chief Electoral Officer's and the Chief Minister's, as reported in the press. The 1997 figure is the number when the category was first used.

Foreigners Tribunals

Foreigners Tribunals are quasi-judicial bodies that decide whether a person referred to them is a foreigner. Cases come from two places, the D-voter list and the Border Police.

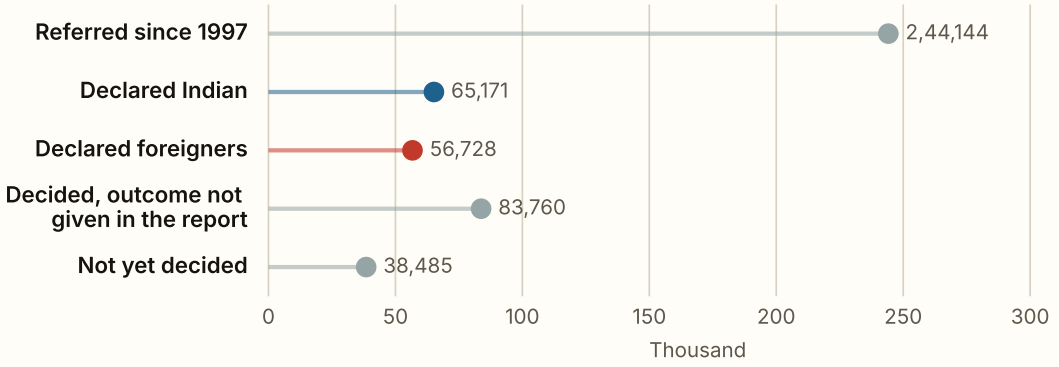

These are the figures the Ministry of Home Affairs gave the Lok Sabha up to 2021, and the figures the Chief Minister gave the Assam Assembly in July 2026, which reached us through the press.

Cases decided by the tribunals each year, 2016 to 2020

To October 2019, 4,68,905 matters had been referred to the tribunals. 1,29,009 people had been declared foreigners and 1,14,225 declared Indian. 1,40,050 cases were pending at the end of 2020, before 300 tribunals. All of these are the Ministry of Home Affairs' answers to the Lok Sabha.

What became of the D-voter cases, as told to the Assembly in July 2026

These figures are from the Chief Minister's reply in the Assam Assembly of 13 July 2026, as The Assam Tribune reported it. Of 2,05,659 D-voter cases decided, the report gives an outcome for 1,21,899. The pending figure is the cases referred less the cases decided. The same reply gave 1,15,945 people declared foreigners from Border Police cases and 31,789 declared foreigners expelled in all. The Wire reported from the same session that 1,679 people were sent to Bangladesh between July 2024 and June 2026, 193 of them declared foreigners.

Detention centres

People declared foreigners by a tribunal, and foreigners convicted of an offence, are held in detention centres. The latest figures for each centre that we could find in a primary source are the Ministry of Home Affairs' answers to the Lok Sabha of December 2019 and March 2020.

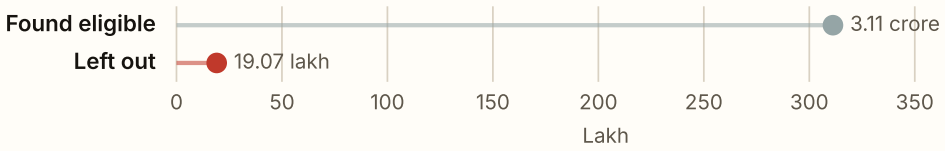

The six centres held 646 men and 324 women on 28 November 2019, in space for 3,331. Men and women are kept apart, and Kokrajhar held 131 of the women. A seventh centre at Matia in Goalpara, for 3,000 people, was under construction in March 2020.

10 people held in Assam's detention centres died in hospital between 1 March 2019 and 29 February 2020. At the end of 2019, 181 declared foreigners and 44 convicted foreigners had been held for more than three years, and 128 had been released after three years under the Supreme Court's order of 10 May 2019. 289 declared foreigners were detained in 2019. Every figure here is from the Ministry of Home Affairs' answers to the Lok Sabha, which put them on the information of the Assam government.

The 2019 NRC

Two lists of Assam's National Register of Citizens, the supplementary list of inclusions and the list of exclusions, were published on 31 August 2019 under the Supreme Court's supervision. The Ministry of Home Affairs told the Lok Sabha in 2021 that the final register had not been issued. The register is kept apart from the electoral roll, and the order for the 2025-26 revision does not mention it. The NRC page sets out the law behind it, the record since 2019 and how the SIR differs.

19,06,657 of the 3,30,27,661 people who applied were left out of the NRC, 5.8%. The decision on D-voters and their descendants was kept on hold on the Supreme Court's direction. The Ministry told the Lok Sabha in March and December 2021 that no rejection orders had yet been issued, so no one left out had yet appealed to a tribunal. The count of applicants is the State Coordinator's, as reported in the press, and equals those found eligible and those left out added together.

▶ THE DATES OF THE REVISION

Every figure on this page downloads as CSV, each row with its source and whether it is primary or press, and every constituency as CSV. Sources and method.

The draft and final rolls by constituency are the Chief Electoral Officer's own tables, and the count of names flagged is the officer's as reported in the press. The constituency tables give the net change only. A reason entered for a flagged name is what the officer wrote down, and nobody checked it. The detention figures are from 2019 and 2020.

Questions about this page

Why did Assam have a different revision?

Assam had a Special Revision of its roll in 2025-26, ordered by the Election Commission on 17 November 2025, and was left out of the Special Intensive Revision. No existing elector filled an enumeration form or showed a document to stay on the roll. The order gives no reason why Assam was treated differently. Assam's citizenship questions run through the Foreigners Tribunals and the 2019 NRC, and the order says nothing about either beyond keeping D-voters as they were.

How many names were flagged in Assam?

10.56 lakh names were flagged for deletion with the draft roll of 27 December 2025, as dead, shifted, or entered more than once. The draft still held 2,76,490 more names than the roll of January 2025. No figure from the Chief Electoral Officer says how many of the flagged names were off the published draft, so the pages call them flagged. The final roll of 10 February 2026 holds 2,49,58,139 electors, 2,44,636 fewer than the draft and 31,854 more than the roll of January 2025.

What is a D-voter?

A doubtful voter, an elector whose citizenship has been questioned and sent to a Foreigners Tribunal. The category exists only in Assam. 93,021 D-voters, electors whose citizenship a Foreigners Tribunal has yet to decide, were carried onto the draft unchanged and kept out of the house-to-house check. Their entries can be changed or deleted only on the order of a tribunal or a court. The Ministry of Home Affairs counted 1,13,738 in October 2019.

What did the tribunals decide?

To October 2019 they had declared 1,29,009 people foreigners and 1,14,225 Indian, and 1,40,050 cases were pending at the end of 2020. In July 2026 the Chief Minister told the Assembly, as the press reported, that of 2,05,659 D-voter cases decided, 56,728 ended in a declaration of foreigner and 65,171 in a declaration of Indian. The report does not say what became of the other 83,760.

What do the figures say about detention?

In November 2019 the six detention centres held 970 people, 324 of them women, and 10 people held in them died in hospital between March 2019 and February 2020. These are the most recent figures for each centre that we found in a primary source, the Ministry of Home Affairs' answers to the Lok Sabha. A centre for 3,000 at Matia was under construction in March 2020.

Is the revision connected to the NRC?

The order for the revision does not mention the NRC. The 2019 NRC left out 19,06,657 of 3,30,27,661 applicants. By December 2021 no rejection orders had been issued, so those left out had not yet been able to appeal to a tribunal.

What do the constituency tables show?

The Chief Electoral Officer published the final roll of February 2024, the draft and the final roll by constituency and sex, and all three are on this page. Every constituency's draft held more names than its roll of February 2024. Between the draft and the final roll, the roll fell in 94 of the 126 constituencies and rose in 32. Women were 62.9% of the net fall, against 50.1% of the draft. The tables give the net change only, so they cannot say how many names were deleted in a seat and how many added, and they say nothing about why.

ASSAM 2026

Figures as of 10 February 2026, when the final roll was published.

Method

1 Assam had a Special Revision of its roll in 2025-26, ordered by the Election Commission on 17 November 2025, and was left out of the Special Intensive Revision. No existing elector filled an enumeration form or showed a document to stay on the roll.

2 Every count on the Assam pages agrees with its parts. That holds for the draft with and without D-voters, the final roll by sex, the detention centres and their totals, and the tribunals' yearly decisions and theirs.

What is counted

The order

The Election Commission's letter No. 23/2025-ERS (Vol. II) of 17 November 2025 to the Chief Electoral Officer of Assam orders the Special Revision and sets its rules and dates. The Commission's own copy could not be opened from outside India, so it was read from a copy of the same letter posted on Scribd, whose number, date, signature and contents match the Commission's listing. The SIR rules beside it on the overview are those of the Commission's SIR order of 27 October 2025, as recorded on How the revision was run.

The roll

The constituency tables are the Chief Electoral Officer's own. They are the final roll of 8 February 2024, the draft of 27 December 2025 and the final roll of 10 February 2026, each by constituency and sex. They add up, seat by seat, to the state totals the press reported. Every other roll figure is the officer's as the press reported it. The draft of 27 December 2025, the D-voters on it and the three reasons for flagging names for deletion are from The Hindu, the New Indian Express and India Today NE. The final roll of 10 February 2026, by sex, and the fall from the draft are from The Tribune, India Today and All India Radio. The roll of January 2025 is from ThePrint.

Why the pages say flagged

Most reports called the 10,56,291 names identified or flagged for deletion. The order tells officers to take such names off through Form 7 before the draft, but no figure from the Chief Electoral Officer says how many were off the published draft, and the draft holds 2,76,490 more names than the roll of January 2025. So the pages call them flagged.

Two drafts

The draft was given as 2,52,02,775 on 27 December 2025 and as 2,52,01,624 with the final roll, 1,151 apart. Neither statement explains the difference, and both are kept as printed. The waterfall uses the first, and the stated fall to the final roll of 2,43,485 is measured from the second.

D-voters, tribunals, detention and the NRC

The figures up to 2021 are the Ministry of Home Affairs' answers to the Lok Sabha, unstarred questions 2340 and 2386 of 3 December 2019, 3558 and 3561 of 10 December 2019, 3880 of 17 March 2020, 1485 of 20 September 2020, 1264 of 9 February 2021, 3280 and 3448 of 16 March 2021, 4401 and 4425 of 23 March 2021, and 2624 and 2627 of 14 December 2021, read from the Lok Sabha's digital library. The Ministry gives most of them on the information of the Assam government. The 2026 figures are the Chief Minister's reply in the Assembly on 13 July 2026, as reported by The Assam Tribune and The Wire.

The checks

Each of these holds.

- The draft without D-voters, plus the D-voters, is the draft.
- The three reasons add to the 10,56,291 The Tribune printed.
- Men, women and third gender on the final roll add to the final roll.

- The draft as stated with the final roll, less the final roll, is the stated fall.
- The six detention centres add to the Ministry's totals for capacity and for men and women held, and men and women add to the total in every centre.
- The tribunals' decisions for 2016 to 2020 add to the printed total of 1,36,064.
- Those found eligible for the NRC and those left out add to the applicants.

What these figures cannot show

- Where in Assam names were flagged or deleted. The constituency tables give each roll's total by sex, so they show the net change in a seat, never the names deleted and added apart.
- How many of the flagged names left the roll, and how many names were added. Only the totals were published.
- Women's share of the names flagged. No split by sex was found.
- Whether any person on any list is a citizen. None of these counts says anything about that.
- How many people are held in detention now. The latest figures for each centre that we found in a primary source are from 2019 and 2020.

Questions about this page

What do the constituency tables show?

The Chief Electoral Officer published the final roll of February 2024, the draft and the final roll by constituency and sex, and all three are on this page. Every constituency's draft held more names than its roll of February 2024. Between the draft and the final roll, the roll fell in 94 of the 126 constituencies and rose in 32. Women were 62.9% of the net fall, against 50.1% of the draft. The tables give the net change only, so they cannot say how many names were deleted in a seat and how many added, and they say nothing about why.

Where do the figures come from?

The rules are from the Election Commission's order of 17 November 2025, read in full. The roll figures are the Chief Electoral Officer's, as The Hindu, The Tribune, India Today, the New Indian Express and All India Radio reported them. D-voters, tribunals, detention and the NRC are from the Ministry of Home Affairs' answers to the Lok Sabha from 2019 to 2021, and for 2026 from the Assembly as the press reported it. The method page names each one.
